RECEIVER

A8

THE Murphy A.8 is an eight-valve super-heterodyne receiver with a valve rectifier, making nine valves in all.

Selectivity has been our primary aim in designing this receiver, but at the same time we have set out to retain the quality of reproduction and the simple operation of other Murphy sets.

For this type of set we believe the reproduction is possibly the finest there is.

For those who want a host of foreign stations all at good strength, or for those who at present suffer from interference from foreign stations when listening to their local programme, this set will do all that they want and perhaps more than they expect.

In distinctive walnut cabinet.
